ENGAGE

Historic and legendary car built by Chrysler for the purpose of promoting NASCAR's Daytona Flying Mile. This car is a numbers matching 413 wedge dual carbureted long ram 375 horsepower letter car which was built to Flying Mile specifications (known as option code 281) with the ultra-rare Borg War Heavy Duty manual transmission.

It was built for the purpose of using as an East Coast press car and delivered new to the Detroit Chrysler offices for use in news articles, corporate promotion and magazine reviews. The car has its original and highly sought after manual transmission, original engine with original factory stampings, and has its club certification included. The frame-off restoration was completed October 2014 by a renowned shop to show standards and then fully sorted. The restoration included all mechanical components being expertly rebuilt as well. We have much of the ownership history, original factory manuals and books, spare and jack. Also included are articles about this car in Car Collector magazine as well as historical documents and magazines also featuring this car.

HEPpenings

We don't sit still for a minute. HEP travels across the country to automotive "hot spots" looking for master craftsmen in their shops, students for our paid internships and apprenticeships and excellent automotive restoration programs at schools.
