TACOMA, Wash. (Feb. 26, 2016) – The Haub Family Field will be rocking a little early this year as vintage motorcycles come rolling into America's Car Museum (ACM) for the fifth annual Vintage Motorcycle Festival: The MEET at ACM on its new date, July 30.

The MEET at ACM – traditionally in late August – is one of five Signature Events at the Museum and will feature pre-1992 iconic motorcycles from storied brands including Harley-Davidson, BMW, Ducati, Triumph, Indian, Honda, Norton, Kawasaki, BSA and many others. This year there is an early registration special of $15, available until July 15, after which the price will jump to $20 through the event. Online registration includes admission for one to the festival.

“We hope to increase the participation to exceed 400 vintage motorcycles this year with our new date and early bird registration fee,” said Vintage Motorcycle Festival Advisory Board Chair Mark Zenor. “We have some great seminars lined up and the famous Seattle Cossacks will be back this year with another great show – we hope to see you there.”

ACM CEO David Madeira is no stranger to both foreign and domestic motorcycles: he is a current member of both the Northwest Norton Owners and the Vintage Motorcycle Enthusiasts.

“Bikers know that life can take you down some interesting roads when you're on two wheels,” said Madeira. “That's why every year thousands of fans and hundreds of vintage bikes come to The MEET at ACM to share the unique history and stories directly related to these bikes. Now in its fifth straight year, we continue to look forward to being the gathering place for motorcycle enthusiasts near and far.”

The ACM CEO's Award, Best of Show, Best Dealer Display and five Judges' Choice trophies will be awarded to the top-rated motorcycles on display in addition to top-three category winners of the following classes:
