TACOMA, Wash. (Apr. 30, 2015) –This year's Pacific Northwest Concours d'Elegance is bringing an eclectic set of vehicle classes to America's Car Museum (ACM) on September 13.

“Working Guys” Trucks, Customs and Lead Sleds, and Super Cars are among the 13 classes and more than 160 vehicles that will grace the Museum's 3.5-acre Haub Family Field.

“The Pacific Northwest Concours attracts attendees from all over the country, so we wanted to bring in a variety of vehicles for everyone to enjoy,” said David Madeira, ACM president and CEO. “Fans can count on seeing classics like Rolls Royce, in addition to unconventional concours vehicles such as panel and delivery trucks in the ‘Working Guys’ Truck class, and cool hot rods/street rods in the Customs and Lead Sleds class.”

This year's class list includes:

- The Elegance of Rolls Royce
- CCCA Classics
- Antiques up to 1925
- Ducati Motorcycles
- Super Cars
- The Cars of E. L. Cord
- Packard Non-Classics 1935 – 1958
- Highway Elegance – Pre War/Early
- Highway Elegance – Post War/Late
- Trucks “Working Guys”
- Customs and Lead Sleds
- Collector Class
- Special Display

Along with the Concours, the Museum has a few connected events the same weekend. ACM is inviting sports and vintage vehicle owners to join its Tour d'Jour on Friday, September 11, at 8 a.m. for a 100-mile cruise through the back country of Puget Sound. The Museum will also host a Dinner d'Elegance with a silent and live auction, Saturday, September 12, at 6:30 p.m.

Net proceeds from the Pacific Northwest Concours d'Elegance will benefit the Hagerty Education Program at America's Car Museum (HEP), a grant-giving program supporting educational
